DETAILED ACTION

Acknowledgement of Applicant's Amendments

1. The amendments made in claims 1-11 in the Amendment filed on October 3, 2005 (Amdt. A) have been received and considered by Examiner.
2. Applicant's cancellation of claims 12-16 in Amdt. A has been acknowledged by Examiner.

WITHDRAWN OBJECTIONS

3. The objection to claims 4 and 9-12 made of record in paragraph 2 of the previous Office Action mailed May 3, 2005 has been withdrawn due to Applicant's amendments in Amdt. A.

WITHDRAWN REJECTIONS

4. The 35 U.S.C. 112 rejection of claim 13 made of record in paragraph 4 of the previous Office Action mailed May 3, 2005 has been withdrawn due to Applicant's cancellation of claim 13 in Amdt. A.
5. The 35 U.S.C. 102 rejection of claims 12-15 made of record in paragraph 6 of the previous Office Action mailed May 3, 2005 has been withdrawn due to Applicant's cancellation of claims 12-15 in Amdt. A.
6. The 35 U.S.C. 103 rejection of claim 16 made of record in paragraph 8 of the previous Office Action mailed May 3, 2005 has been withdrawn due to Applicant's cancellation of claim 16 in Amdt. A.

REPEATED REJECTIONS

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Art Unit: 1772

7. The 35 U.S.C. 102 rejection of claims 1-7 and 9 made of record in paragraph 6 of the previous Office Action mailed May 3, 2005 has been repeated for the reasons previously made of record and for the following reasons that address the amendments in claims 1-7 and 9 in Amdt.

A: Brown teaches that the wipe (wipe device, item 10, Fig. 1 and 7) comprises material (the material for either sheath 14 or 16, or the material of wiping sheet, item 26) forming one cavity with one opening configured to receive a finger (col. 2, lines 40-48 and Fig. 1, 7 and 8). The material of the wipe device of Brown is shaped, with a finger inserted therein, to fit in a region of an eye near its tear duct because the tip of a finger is shaped to fit in a region of an eye near its tear duct, and the tip of either end of the wipe device of Brown is shaped similarly to the tip of a finger (see Fig. 7 and 8), so the tip of either end of the wipe device of Brown is shaped to fit in a region of an eye near its tear duct. Since the material is a component of the wipe device of Brown, the material is adapted to remove biological matter released from the eye at a position at or near the tear duct. Note that has been held that the recitation that an element is “adapted to” perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform. In re Hutchinson, 69 USPQ 138. In regard to claim 2, the material includes a first material (material for sheaths 14, 16) and a second material (wiping sheet, item 26) coupled together to form an elongated cavity (col. 2, lines 40-48 and Fig. 1, 7 and 8). The amendment in claim 3 does not affect the rejection of record. In regard to claim 4, non-fibrous material falls within the teaching of Brown at col. 2, lines 43-46. In regard to claim 5, the material (material for either sheath 14 or 16) is a unitary piece of material (Fig. 1, 7 and 8). In regard to claim 6, the material is operable to absorb moisture because Brown teaches cloth, leather and synthetic fabric (materials that are operable to absorb moisture) as suitable materials for the material (col. 2, lines 40-48). In regard to claim 7, the material of wiping sheet, item 26, of Brown has an oval shape (Fig. 9). In regard to claim 9, an eye irritant solution is substantially absent from the material (the material for either sheath 14 or 16, or the material of wiping sheet, item 26).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The 35 U.S.C. 103 rejection of claim 8 made of record in paragraph 8 of the previous Office Action mailed May 3, 2005 has been repeated for the reasons previously made of record and for the following reasons that address the amendments in claims 1 and 8 in Amdt. A: Brown teaches the wipe as discussed above in regard to claim 1. While Brown fails to explicitly teach that the material (the material for either sheath 14 or 16, or the material of wiping sheet, item 26) has a maximum dimension of less than about two inches, Brown teaches that the wipe is for lenses and similar articles (col. 1, lines 14-16 and col. 2, lines 28-30) and Fig. 7 of Brown depicts the wipe being used on a pair of eyeglasses. Since Brown teaches that the wipe is to be used for wiping the lenses of eyeglasses, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have fabricated the wiping sheet, item 26, of Brown and the sheaths, items 14 and 16, of Brown such that they are sized such that they have a maximum dimension that is approximately equal to the maximum dimension of the lens that the wipe is intended to be used on, as is shown in Fig. 7 of Brown, in order to make efficient use of the material required for the wiping sheet, item 26, and the sheaths, items 14 and 16, of Brown, depending on the particular lens which is to be wiped by the wipe of Brown.

9. The 35 U.S.C. 103 rejection of claims 10 and 11 made of record in paragraph 9 of the previous Office Action mailed May 3, 2005 has been repeated for the reasons previously made of record and for the reasons provided above that address the amendments in claim 1 Amdt. A: the wipe that “include[s]” a non-eye irritating cleaning solution proposed in paragraph 9 of the previous Office Action mailed May 3, 2005 is a material that is at least partially saturated with a non-eye irritating solution, and the wipe that “include[s]” an eye makeup remover proposed in paragraph 9 of the previous Office Action mailed May 3, 2005 is a material that is at least partially saturated with a solution operable to remove makeup.

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant’s arguments presented on pages 5-6 of Amdt. A regarding the 35 U.S.C. 102 rejection of claims 1-7 and 9 have been fully considered but are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Brown does not teach a “material forming one cavity with one opening configured to receive a finger” as claimed because Brown teaches two sheaths and therefore two openings, but the recitation “comprising: material forming one cavity with one opening” of claim 1 does not limit the wipe to having solely one opening. Applicant argues that claim 1 is “not directed to cleaning an inanimate object”, but there is no structure or composition recited in claim 1 that precludes use of the wipe as a wipe for inanimate objects, and there is no teaching in Brown that precludes use of the wipe of Brown as an eye wipe. The number of sides to be cleaned of whatever object to be cleaned is irrelevant to article claims 1-11. Applicant argues that a “flat shape is not suitable to fit near an eye duct due to a curvature in the shape of a face near the eye duct” is not supported, and regardless, the tip of either end of the wipe of Brown when a finger is inserted in each of the sheaths of Brown is not flat (Fig. 7 and 8). Applicant’s statement that the structure of Brown is “cumbersome and therefore not suitable to use near an eye” is unsupported and irrelevant: the difficulty of use of an article is not relevant in rebuttal of a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102. Brown plainly teaches the claimed structure.

Art Unit: 1772

11. Applicant's arguments presented on page 7 of Amdt. A regarding the 35 U.S.C. 103 rejections of claims 8, 10 and 11 have been fully considered but are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments depend entirely upon Applicant's arguments regarding the 35 U.S.C. 102 rejection of claim 1, which have been addressed above.

Conclusion

12. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
